Western Exchange Sites for Business Students:

All the sites listed offer extensive business courses in English. This list organizes the sites based on their accreditation. National or regional business school accreditation assures students that an institution of higher learning adheres to high quality standards based on the latest research and professional practice. An accredited institution must continue to demonstrate at regular review cycles that it is developing and growing, not just maintaining existing standards.

 AACSB, EQUIS, AMBA (about 1% of all business schools worldwide that grant business degrees are triple accredited)

- Kedge Business School (Bordeaux and Marseille, France) KEDGE positions itself as a multi-specialist management school with a focus on Marketing, Supply Chain Management, and CSR within five areas of expertise: Wine & Spirits, Innovation & Entrepreneurship, Health Management, Finance Reconsidered and Creative Industries & Culture.
- Aalto University School of Business (Mikkeli, Finland) Students can take English courses in Business, Management, Accounting, Marketing, Finance, Economics, Business Law, Mathematics, and Foreign Languages.

 AACSB and EQUIS

- EM Normandie (Caen & Le Havre, France, and Oxford, England) EM Normandie offers a wide range of business programs from International Business to International Management. Students studying abroad for an academic year can receive a dual degree from EM Normandie.
- Yonsei University (Seoul, Korea) Note that Yonsei also has accreditation through the Korea Association of Business Education Accreditation (KABEA). In addition to Korean language, Yonsei University has coursework in Marketing, Management, Finance, Accounting, Operations, and Decision & Information Sciences.

 AACSB and AMBA

- University of Hull (Hull, England) The University of Hull has coursework in Accounting, Finance, Management, Economics, Marketing, and Supply Chain Management.

 AACSB (Fewer than 5% of business schools worldwide that grant business degrees have earned AACSB accreditation)

- Edith Cowan University (Perth, Australia) ECU offers a wide range of courses in Marketing, Human Resource Management, Accounting, Commerce, Recreation & Event Management, Hotel & Resort Management, and Finance. Internships are available both on-campus and off-campus.
- University of Newcastle (Newcastle, Australia). The University of Newcastle’s business school is also accredited through AMI (Australian Marketing Institute), AHRI (Australian Human Resource Institute), Chartered Accountants Australia and New Zealand, and CPA Australia. UoN ranks in the top 150 business programs for Business Administration, Hospitality and Tourism Management, and the top 200 for Business and Economics.

- Umeå University (Umeå, Sweden) Umeå School of Business, Economics and Statistics (USBE) offers courses in multiple business disciplines. Note that the majority of courses are taught in Swedish but students will find a number of courses taught in English.

- National Chengchi University (Taipei, Taiwan) NCCU is a great options for business students looking for a wide range of courses taught in English. It may be possible for students to take graduate level courses pending approval from the professor for that course.

ACBSP (similar to AACSB, but with a greater focus on teaching rather than research)

- Rajagiri Center for Business Studies (Kochi, India) Rajagiri has multiple national and international accreditations – ACBSP, NBA, NAAC, and AICTE. Students may select courses from the MBA, MHRM and PGDM programs. Students are advised to restrict the selection of subjects being offered in any one trimester so as to avoid clashes in class timings. Course offerings include such subjects as: Cost and Management Accounting – Macroeconomics – Foundation and Financial Management – Process Management – Sales Management – Quantitative Technics – Organizational Behavior.

The following universities have business programs accredited through local or national-level agencies

- University of Tasmania (Hobart, Australia) The University of Tasmania’s business school is accredited through TEQSA (Tertiary Education Quality and Standards Agency is Australia’s independent national quality assurance and regulatory agency for higher education). Students can take courses in a wide arrange of business courses including coursework on Global Logistics and Maritime Management.

- Karl Franzens-Universitat Gräz (Gräz, Austria) The University of Gräz’s business school is accredited through FIBAA (Foundation for International Business Administration Accreditation, which is the recognized accreditation body in all German speaking countries). Although German is the main language of instruction at the University of Gräz, there are a significant number of business courses taught in English.

- Hangzhou Normal University (Hangzhou, China) Hangzhou Normal University is accredited by the Department of Education, Zhejiang Province. HNU offers two main tracks in business; Finance and International Economics and Trade.

- International Christian University (Mitaka, Japan) ICU is accredited through the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, Japan. This site is primarily intended for students interested in an intensive Japanese language program. In addition to language classes, students are able to find courses taught in English is business and economics.
Akita International University (Akita, Japan) AIU is accredited through the Japan University Accreditation Association. The entire curriculum at AIU is taught in English. The Global Business program provides students with a broad knowledge base and framework to analyze and understand the complicated nature of economic and business issues in a fast-changing era. This contrasts with narrow, technical and vocation-specific courses designed to enable graduates to quickly contribute to immediate future employers in narrowly defined, specialized skill areas.

University of Plymouth (Plymouth, England) The University of Plymouth is accredited through the Privy Council of the United Kingdom. Students can find a wide range of business courses including courses in Accounting, Economics, Finance, Marketing & Entrepreneurship, Tourism & Hospitality, and International Shipping, Logistics and Operations.

University of the Basque Country (Multiple Campuses in Spain) Ministerio de Educación y Formación Profesional, España. Coursework is primarily offered in Spanish, but English coursework is also available. Subject options include Business Administration, Accounting, Economics, Marketing, Finance, and the Social Management of Business.